

Jacob H.

Driven, Ambitious, Curious

The bad news is time flies. The good news is you're the pilot.

BIOGRAPHY

Ever since he was young, Jacob has always been inquisitive. Whether it be reading hundreds of books on the mysteries of the oceans or learning math many grades above that which he was in, he has always been curious. Jacob, seeking an opportunity to fuel his passion for the sciences and math, joined the 49ers STEM Leadership Institute in 7th grade. Through his own inquisitive nature and the opportunities provided by SLI, Jacob has found a passion in Computer Science and wishes to pursue a future in the field.

Outside of school, Jacob enjoys participating in various extracurriculars. He has played baseball for over ten years and has played all four years with the school team. Jacob has shown a great passion in teaching others. Through PECS, a project that he is a part of with some of his peers, he has hosted workshops at local senior centers, teaching senior citizens about cybersecurity and how to stay safe online. Overall, Jacob loves giving back to the community with the skills and knowledge that he has acquired over the years, fueled by his unwavering curiosity.
